The region and the people

Dynamic and upwardly mobile, the main trade area's growing resident population of approximately 8,000 surges dramatically in the tourism season. This regular and reliable influx contributes significantly to liquor and grocery sales, all trading above benchmarks for a neighbourhood shopping centre.

Demographics

- Total main trade area population of 7,904.
- Local population growth forecast at 0.8% p/a to 2031.
- Per capita income in the primary trade area is $57,869. This is 14% higher than the regional QLD average and 3% higher than the Brisbane average.
- The catchment is characterised by an older age profile of affluent retirees with 39% 65+ years, and 73% of all households made up of 'couples without children' and 'lone persons' (compared to 56% in regional QLD and 57% in Brisbane), indicating a greater level of disposable income within the main trade area.
- At 75%, three quarters of residents live in their own home, which is just over 17% higher than both the Brisbane and regional QLD averages – reflecting the retiree population.
- Whilst 71% of the population in the main trade area were born in Australia, about one third of new residents who move to the area are overseas born – the UK and South Africa being the largest source countries.
